SILICON LABORATORIES BEATS EXPECTATIONS

-Broad-based Business Momentum Accelerating-

AUSTIN, Texas — April 28, 2010 — Silicon Laboratories Inc. (Nasdaq: SLAB), a leader in high-performance, analog-intensive, mixed-signal integrated circuits (ICs), today reported first quarter revenue of $126.7 million, beating expectations and setting a record for first quarter performance. The company also exceeded expectations on gross margin and earnings per share.

Financial Highlights

First quarter revenue of $126.7 million was a 51 percent increase over the same period in 2009 and flat sequentially, a better than seasonal result. First quarter GAAP gross margin increased considerably to 66 percent. R&D investment for the first quarter was $29.9 million. SG&A decreased to $28 million. Other income, principally interest income on invested cash, was under $1 million. GAAP operating income was more than 20 percent for the third consecutive quarter. Fully diluted earnings per share was $0.44, up dramatically from $0.01 during the same period last year.

The following non-GAAP results exclude the impact of stock compensation expense and other one-time charges. Non-GAAP gross margin for the quarter was up again at 66.2 percent. Non-GAAP operating expenses increased as expected to 38 percent. R&D investment increased to $25.8 million due to a record number of new product tape outs and increased hiring. SG&A expense decreased to $22.3 million. Non-GAAP operating income exceeded 28 percent of revenue. Non-GAAP diluted earnings per share for the first quarter was $0.62, well above expectations and nearly triple the result of the same period last year. The reconciling charges are set forth in the financial measures table included below.

Share repurchases during the quarter totaled approximately $25 million. The company ended the quarter with $447 million in cash, cash equivalents and investments due to continued healthy cash flow from operations.

Business Summary

Strong performance for the quarter was led by the company's broad-based products, which were up 11 percent sequentially. Strength in networking equipment and customer expansion resulted in another record quarter for timing products. The embedded mixed-signal products also had a record quarter, with particular strength in MCU coming from recovery in demand among communications and industrial customers. Record development kit shipments were driven by wireless applications in home security, metering and home automation.

Strength in the company's consumer audio products partially offset a better than seasonal decline in handsets and portable media players, enabling the broadcast products overall to be down by only 10 percent. Design traction continued for the company's video products, and the company achieved first revenue for the silicon tuner in the first quarter. The access product category remained a steady performer and was about flat sequentially.

"Q1 was a great start to 2010," said Necip Sayiner, president and CEO of Silicon Laboratories. "Our products are delivering on the growth we had anticipated with very attractive gross margins. We are executing on a record number of exciting new product developments and have been able to attract an increasing number of talented employees to the company. Our financial strength is giving us the ability to continue to invest and capitalize on a number of untapped strategic opportunities."

The company guided revenues for the second quarter in the range of $131 to $135 million.
